WE DEDICATE THIS BOOK TO OUR PARENTS.

We wish to commend their unselfishness, their wisdom, and their countless virtues that have goverened our lives in helping us to become better citizens.

FOREWORD

After a full year's work in planning, doing research, writing, and tackling the vast number of small tasks that go into the making of a school yearbook--we couldn't help but enjoy it.

We have chosen for our theme "Memories of the Littlest Cub." We sincerely hope that as you read this annual you will enjoy reminiscing with the "Littlest Cub" about your 1957-58 year at Horace Mann High School. Just follow him on his journey through the pages---

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomore Class of 1957-58 is justly proud of its accomplishments. They have published the Halloween and Christmas editions of the "Mirror," and wrote the "Horace Mann News and Views" as weekly columns which appeared in the Maryville paper. They also put on the first "Back-to-School Dance," and the May Formal. Class sponsors were Miss Joann Harristhal and Mr. Richard Oswald.

FRESHMEN

During the school year, the Freshman Class had several parties, some for their class and the Junior High students, and some for the whole school. Members of the Freshman class also enjoyed a trip to the County Court House. The class elected a person to visit the office of each county official.

Seventh Grade Officers and Sponsors

Seventh Grade

The Seventh grade has been very active this year. They have given several parties for the eighth and ninth grades. Most of the girls took part in Pep Club and everyone participated in TAB Club. They also had an octett which sang for their parties.

Eighth Grade

The Eighth Grade participated in many activities during the year. They had several parties for the seventh and ninth graders. The class also gave the traditional Junior High Christmas dinner and dance. An assembly was given by the Eighth Grade, which was based on the unit they had studied in music class, "Dances Through the Ages."

Cheer Leaders

Yea, Cubs! Let's go! This is one of the many familiar yells heard in and around the halls of Horace Mann. The cheerleaders this year have helped greatly to boost school spirit with their clever pep assemblies and their peppy new yells

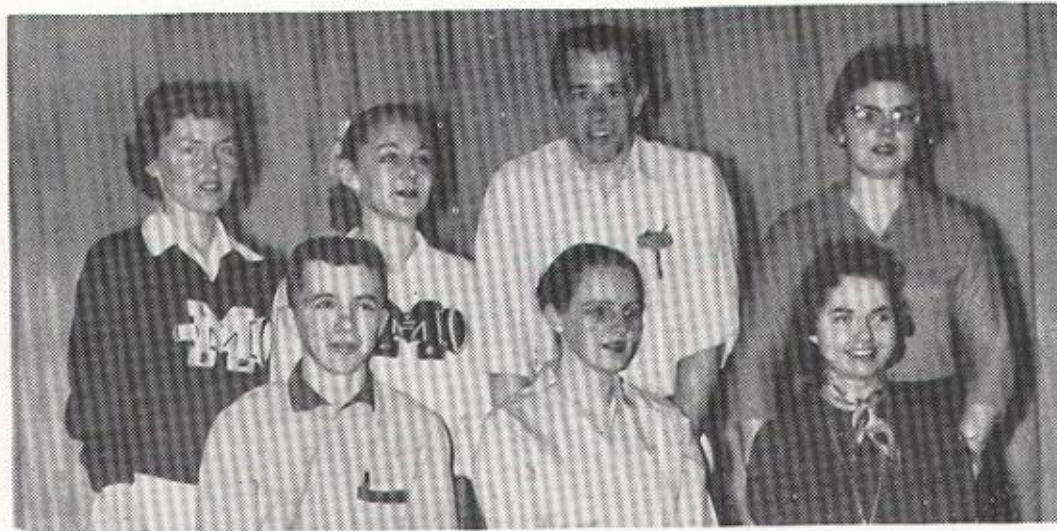

Boys', Girls' State

Each year the American Legion and The American Legion Auxiliary sponsor a Boys' and Girls' State. Last summer, Boys' State was held in Warrensburg and Girls' State at Columbia. Those representing Horace Mann at Boys' State were Kenneth Hughes, Richard Pope, Bob Willis, Tim Johnson, Scott Brown, and Garrett Addison. Rebecca Bell was the representative to Girls' State.

Each student was allowed to enroll in one of three schools, Legislative, Peace Officers, and Law School. A small style government was set up which ruled during the entire session. Arrests were made and trials were conducted by lawyers who had graduated from the law school.

National Honor Society

Members of the National Honor Society are selected on a basis of scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service to the school. This year, the Horace Mann Chapter served the school by decorating the Christmas tree in the hall. They also plan to give a dinner party for the new members from Horace Mann who will be selected by the faculty. Most of the members of the organization ordered membership pins. Officers of the club are Rebecca Bell, president; Tim Johnson, vice-president; and Phyllis Smith, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Harry Sheetz sponsors the group.

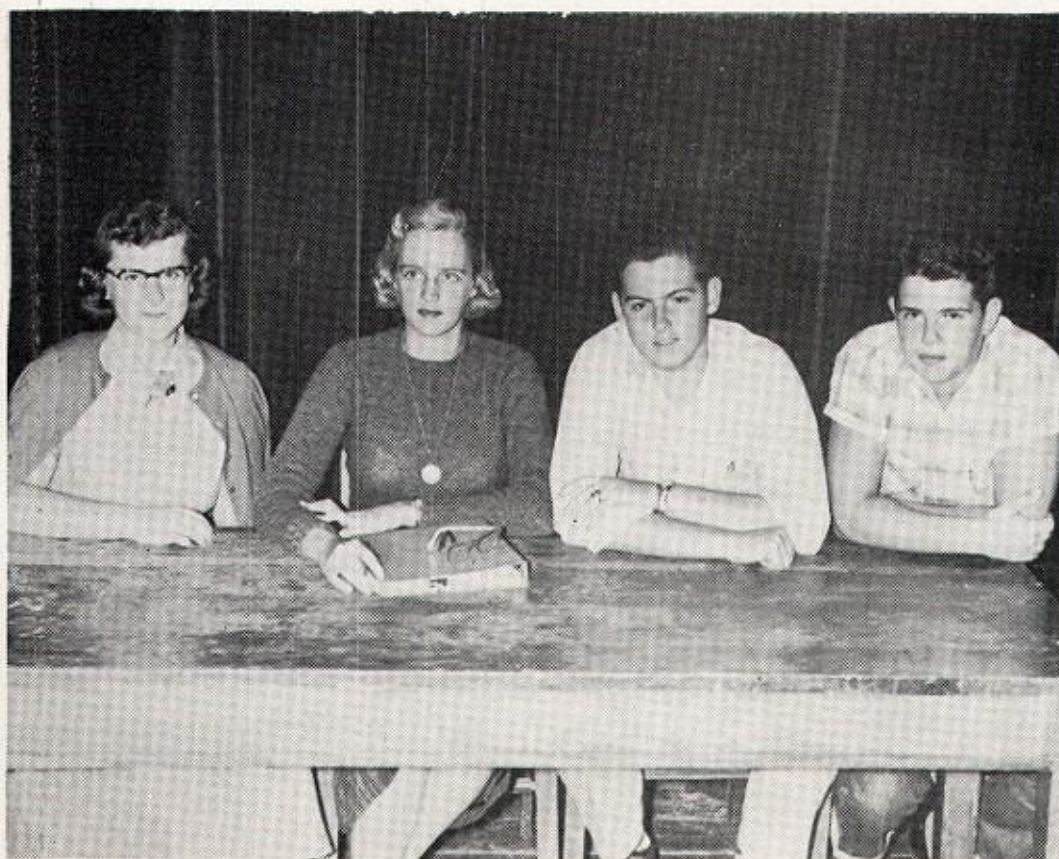

Now make it look pretty! National Honor Society members decorate the Christmas tree.

Student Council

"The Littlest Cub" perched on top of the piano in the activity room, was amazed to learn of the extensive activities of the student council. He never had known that the student council sponsored Homecoming and Christmas dances, helped with parents night, and had so much to do with keeping Horace Mann running along smoothly.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS: secretary, Karan Porter; president, Rebecca Bell; vice-president, Roger Blackwell; and sergeant-at-arms, Ricky Suess.

F. H. A.

The Future Homemakers of America Club sponsored by Mrs. Nelson Grabau has been very active this past year. A series of suppers before football and basketball games highlighted the year's activities. Also the members attended the sub-district F. H. A. Conference at Mound City and sent three official delegates. As a money making project, the girls made purple and white beanies and sold them to the members of the student body.

The officers are: president, Shirley Dredge; vice-president Etta Mae Dougan; secretary-treasurer, Linda Reaksecker; and program chairman, Cleanne Ferguson.

F. T. A.

The Future Teachers of America Club was organized to acquaint students with the requirements, advantages, disadvantages, and duties of teaching. During the meetings this year the members have discussed teachers' certification, requirements for teaching degrees, have given reports on famous educators, and have observed classes. F. T. A. officers are: Karen McIntyre, president; Karen Kent, vice-president; Rose Ann Gard, secretary; Karan Porter, treasurer; Carmelita Kemel, historian; Linda Kensinger, librarian; and Jeanie Morris, parliamentarian.

M Club

The "M" Club at Horace Mann consists of boys who have lettered in any varsity sport. The following officers were elected at the first meeting of the "M" Club: Scott Brown, president; Hollis White, vice-president; Richard Pope, secretary; Roger Blackwell, recorder; and Marlin Heflin, sergeant-at-arms.

Pep Club

"The Littlest Cub," a full-fledged member of the pep club helped cheer the team on to many victories in football, basketball, and track this year. He was fairly bursting with pride when he found that Horace Mann had not only been given a perfect sportsmanship rating in football, but also had earned the sportsmanship trophy in basketball. He knew that the Purple Peppers played a big part in earning these awards.

Officers of the pep club are: president, Phyllis Smith; vice-president, Agnes Luke.

Dramatics

Dramatics Club is an organization for the high school students who are interested in drama and acting. They have presented several plays for the student body at Horace Mann assemblies.

The officers for the club were: president, Rose Ann Gard; vice-president, Charla Blagg; secretary, Judi Hamman; and treasurer, Trudi Walker. Miss Dorothy Weigand was the sponsor.

G. R. A.

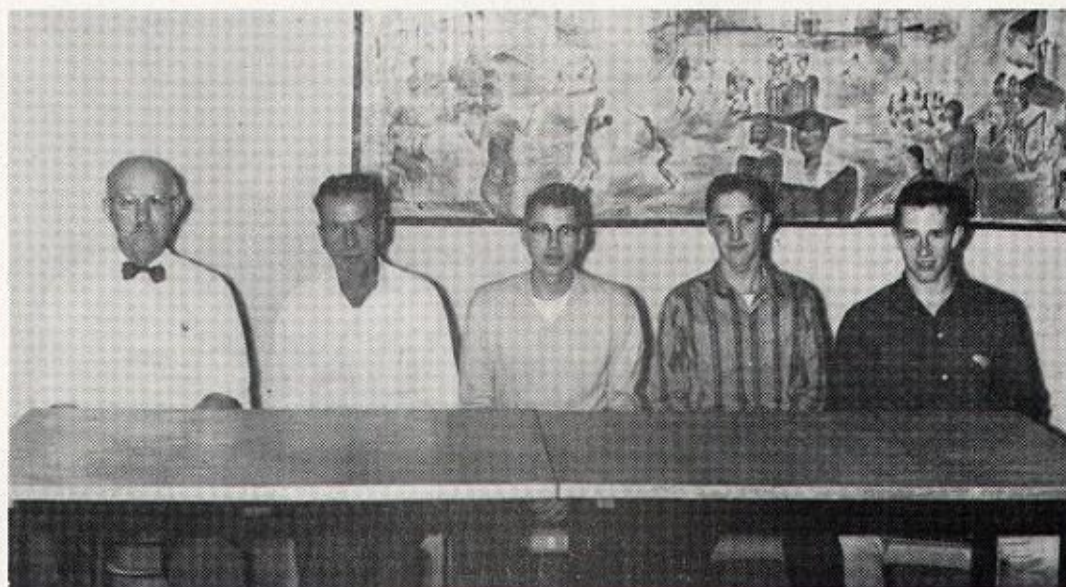

Horace Mann girls who enjoy sports belong to the Girls Recreation Association, a group which meets during the noon hour for intramural activities. By participating in these sports the girls earn points toward awards of numerals, letters, and pins. The GRA girls finance these awards themselves through money making projects during the year. The membership is growing, and the GRA is rapidly becoming a strong club at HMHS.

Conservation

The Conservation Club has engaged in several major activities this year—a wild game dinner, a fox drive which was open to the public, and has sponsored several movies for assemblies. Pictured below are Mr. Herbert R. Dieterich, sponsor; Mr. Kenneth Armstrong, Nodaway County Conservation Agent; Dale Nelson, president; Verlin Tremble, vice-president; and Scott Brown, secretary.

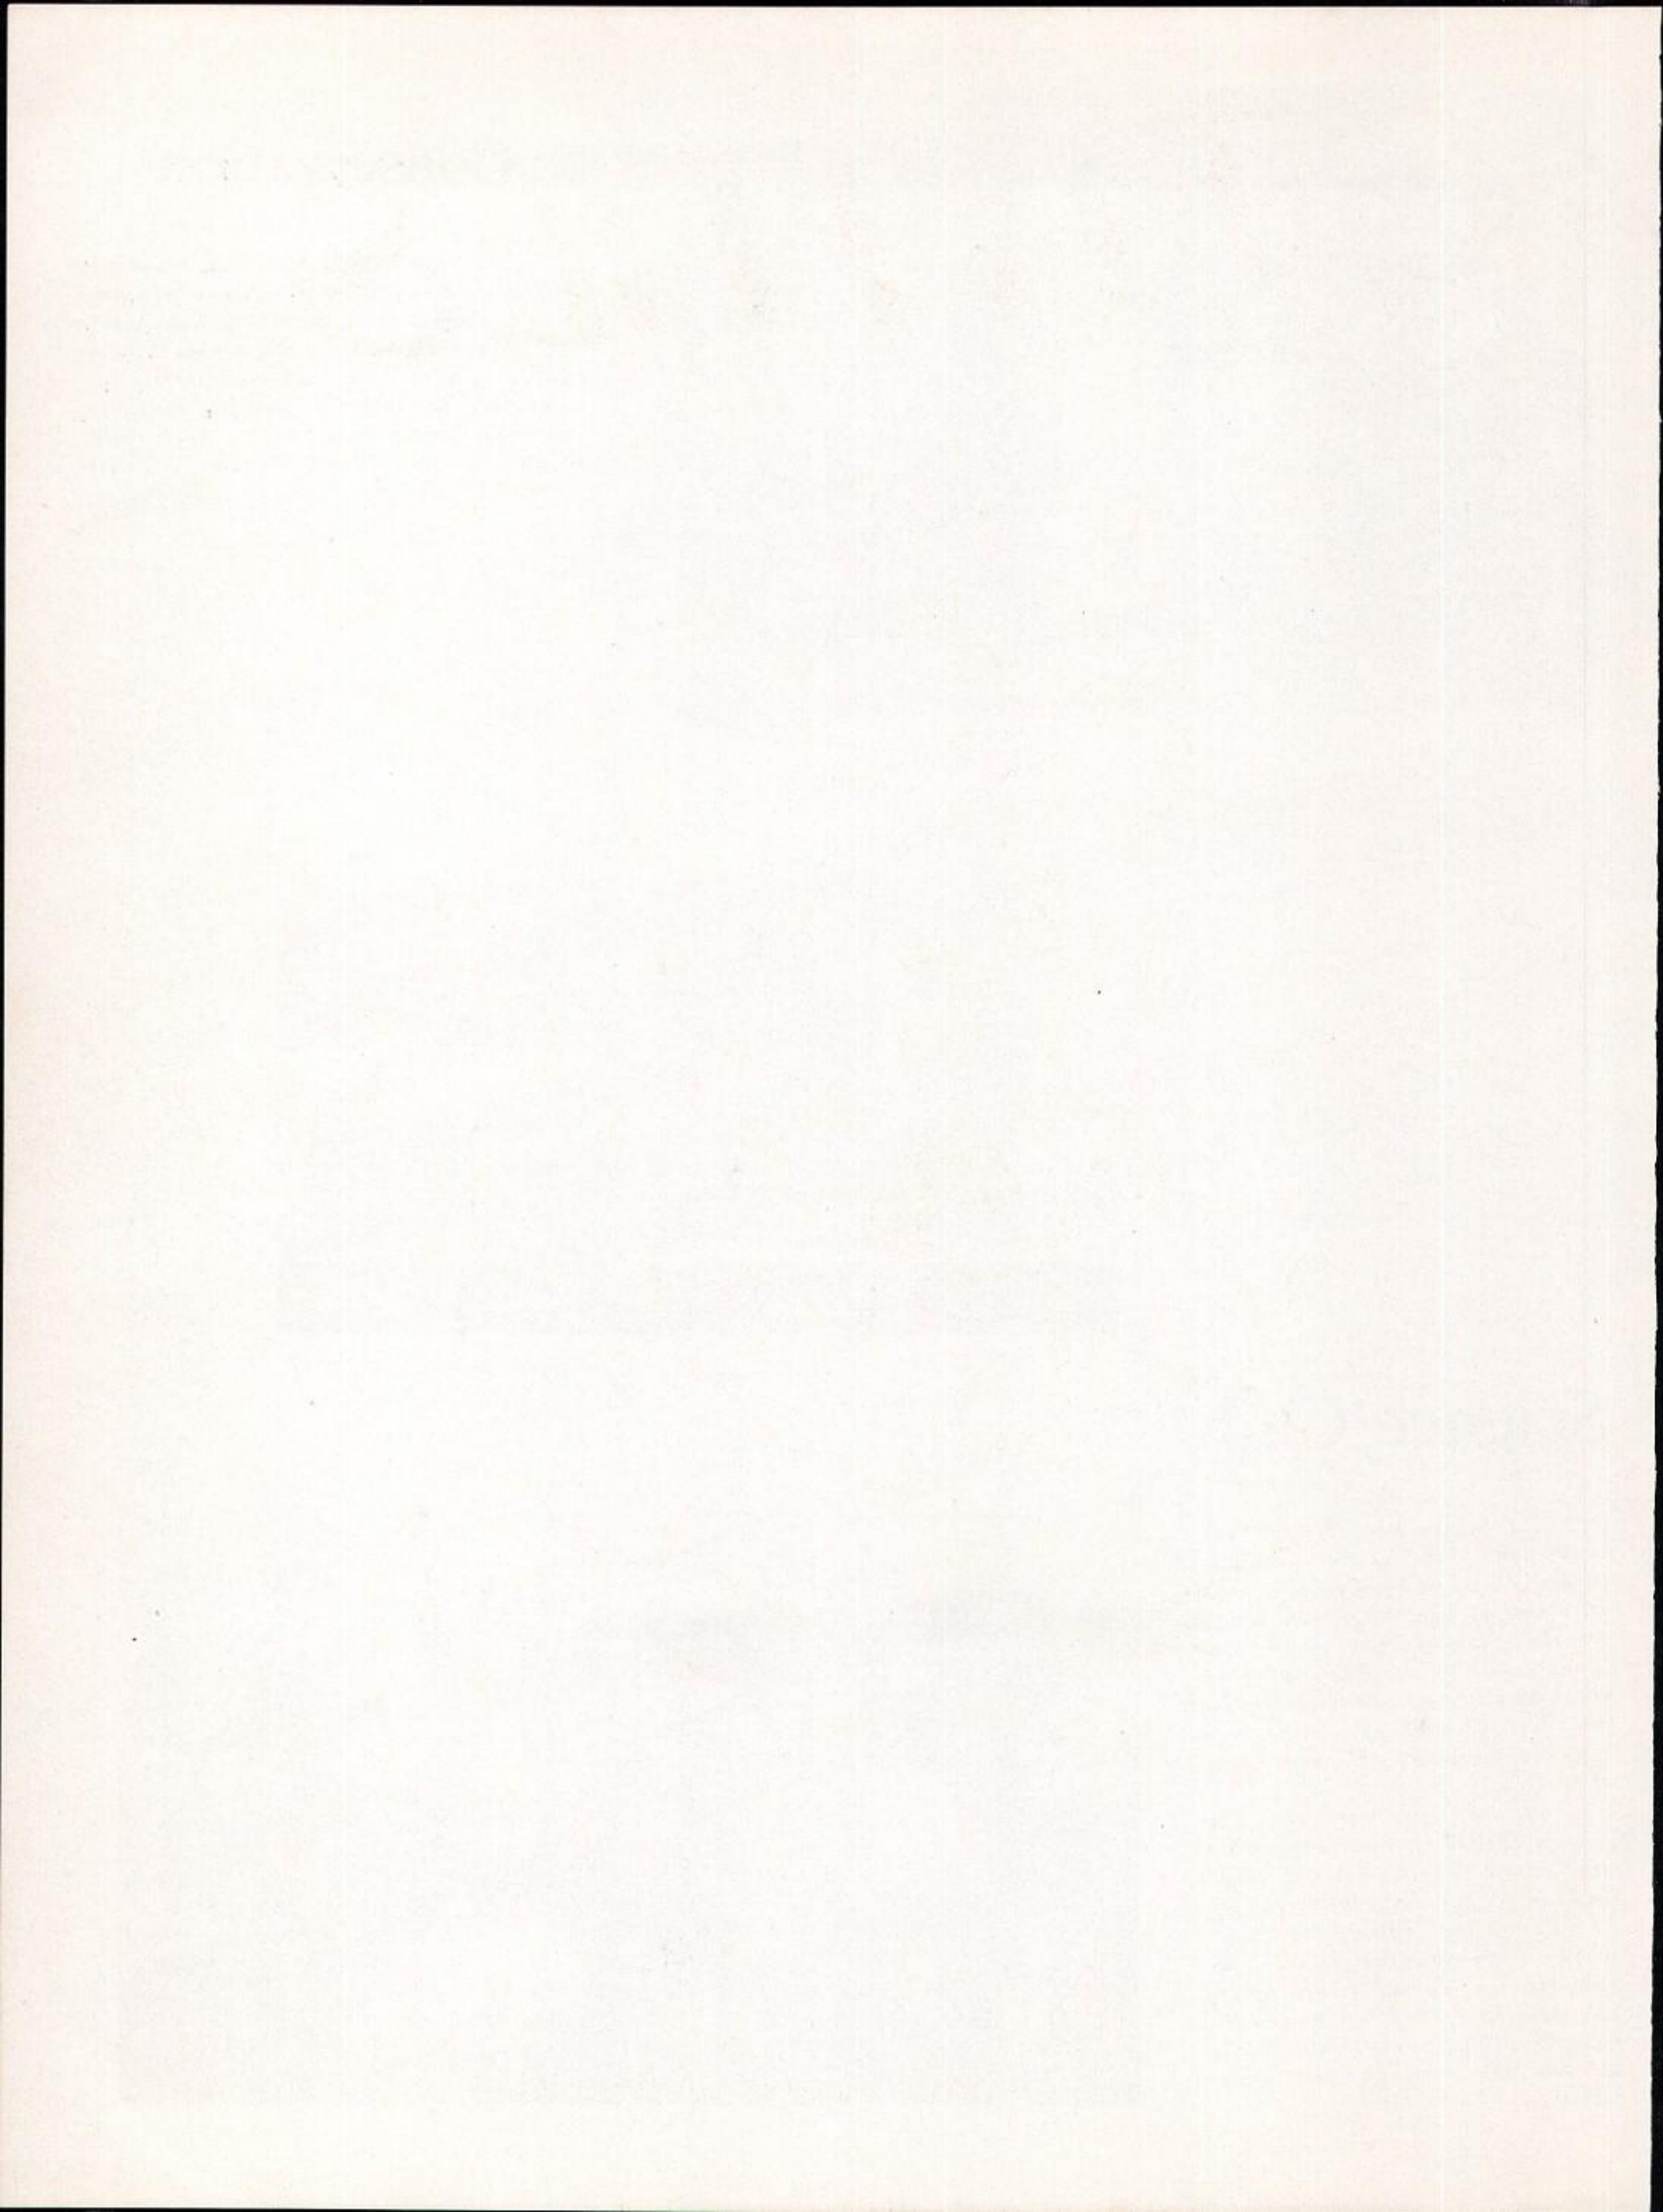

Science Club

The Horace Mann Science Club is affiliated with the Science Clubs of America. Its purposes are to increase knowledge of science, to learn to perfect skills in science, to give service in the community and nation, to understand the importance of science in the daily lives of individuals, and to help carry out the program of Science Clubs of America.

Any boy or girl interested in science is eligible to join. Each member must have a project concerning some branch of science during the year.

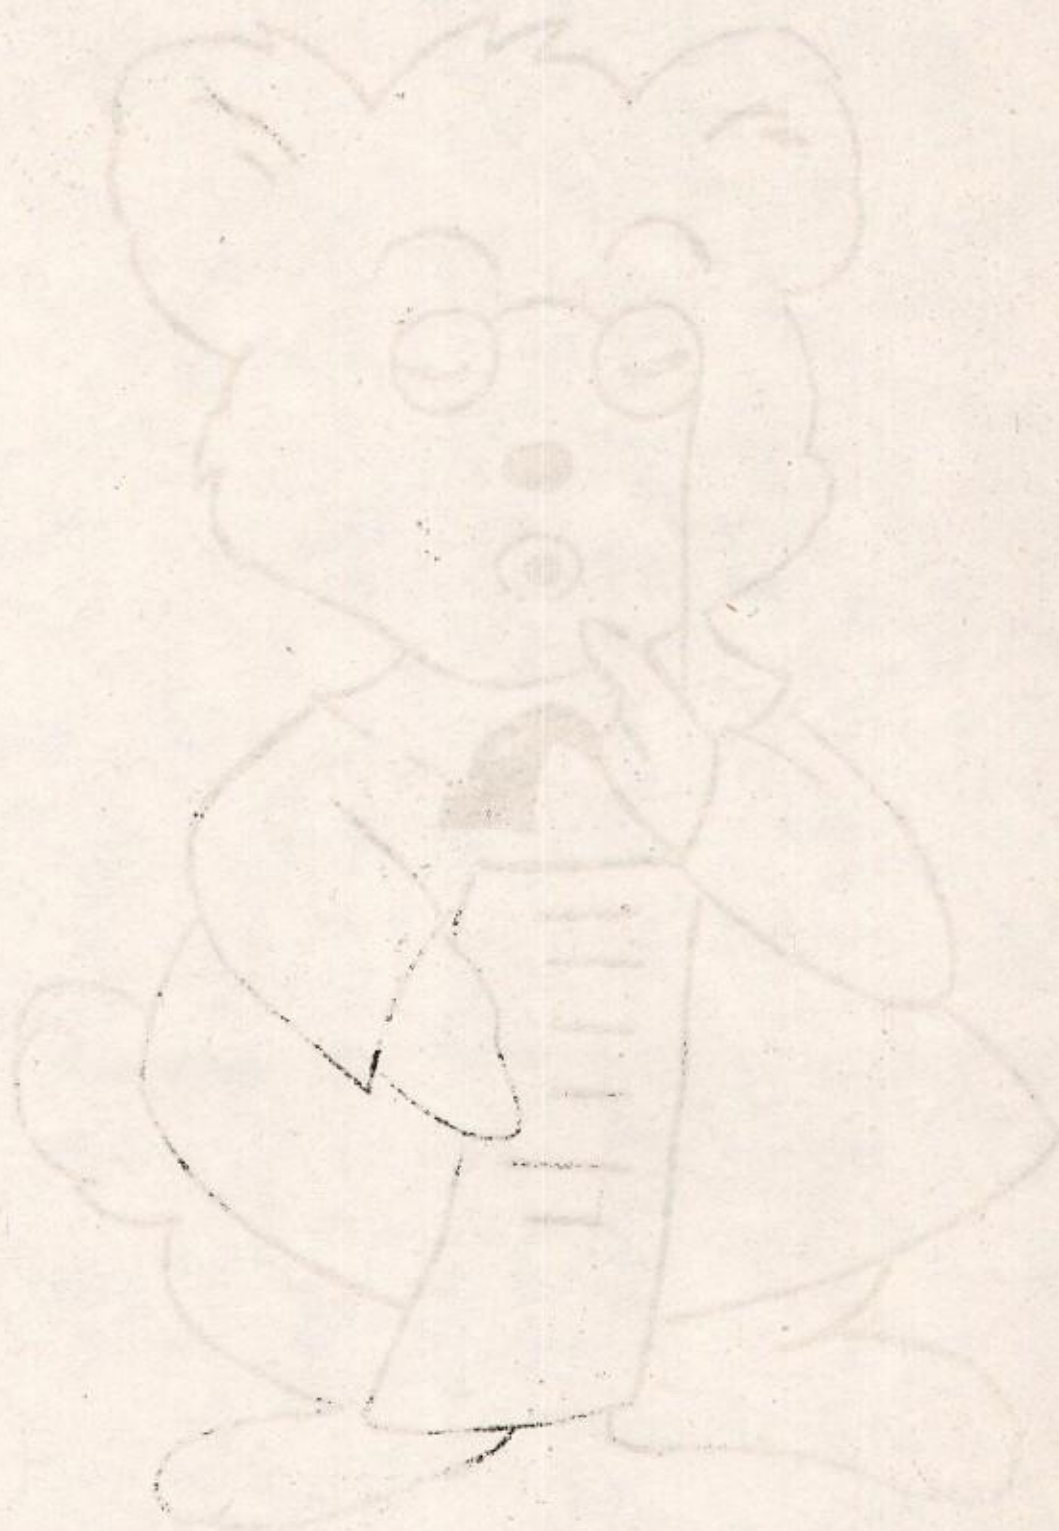

The Clubs officers are Tim Johnson, president; Bob Willis, Vice-president; and Ramona Jensen, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Theodore Weichinger, science instructor at Horace Mann, sponsors the group of enthusiastic Scientists.

ACTIVITIES

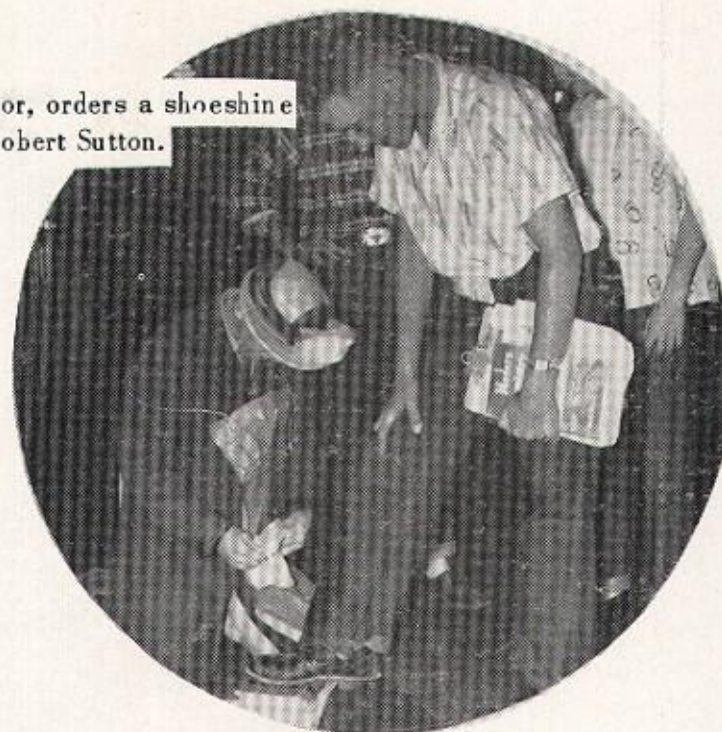

A big hit with everyone was this game played by the Freshmen boys.

Dean Heflin, Senior, orders a shoeshine from Freshman, Robert Sutton.

Freshmen girls relax and eat watermelon after their big day.

Freshman Initiation

Remember Freshman Initiation Day? I was there too, all dressed up in my baggy overalls. We really had a big time. And you should have seen what we had to wear—overalls, or shorts, pigtailed with carrots on them, and an old hat—and we even had to carry a bucket for our books. The worst thing, though, was having to bow and sing to upperclassmen.

In the afternoon, we all went to the college park to play games and to have a big watermelon feed—yum, yum!

Seniors, Scott Brown and Rebecca Bell, help race their team to victory in a rock-and-roll relay.

Student teachers were guests at the prom.

We danced in one big rosy glow at the 1957 Junior-Senior Prom—"La Vie en Rose," that is the scene for both the banquet and prom, a Parisian sidewalk cafe decorated in rose and white, fit in with the French theme.

Roger Blackwell, class president, acted as master of ceremonies for the after dinner program during which, Dr. Charles Koerble, Dean at NWMSC, gave a speech entitled "A Rose by Any Other Name," and Myrna Arms, Senior Class President, expressed the thanks of the Senior Class for the banquet and prom.

At the prom, dance music was provided by a band from the college, and several school groups sang during the intermission.

Dancing at the prom in a dreamy mood?

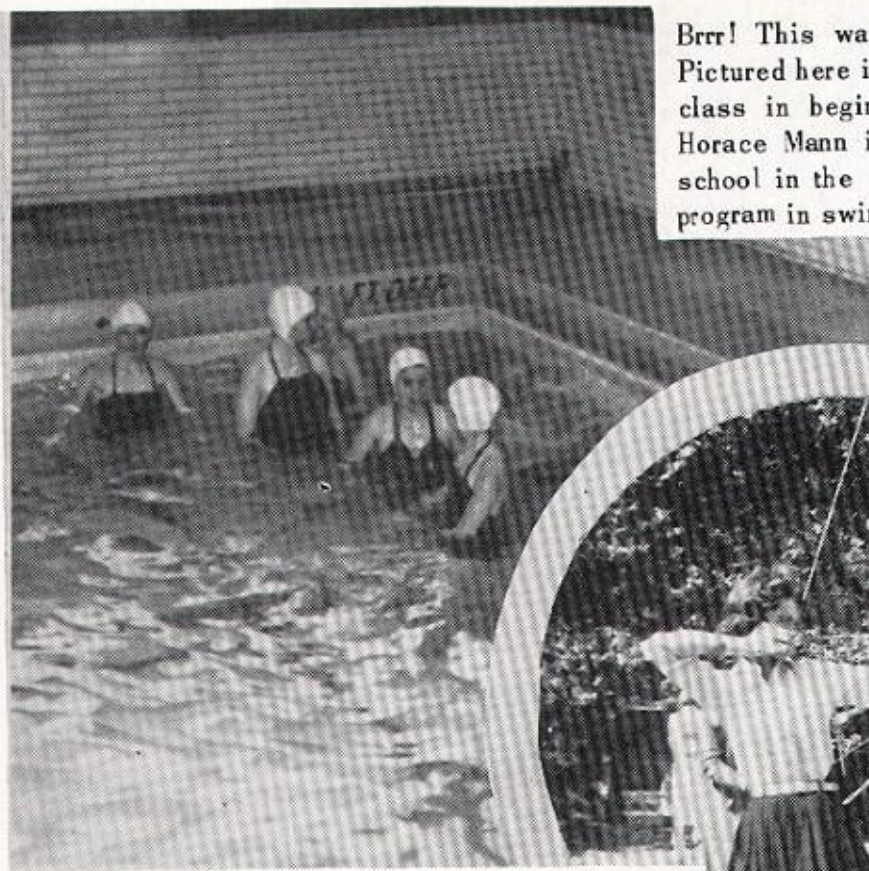

Homecoming 1957

No one was more impressed with the 1957 Homecoming Dance and Coronation than the "Littlest Cub." Ramona Jensen, junior cheerleader, and Bob Willis, senior letterman, were crowned queen and king in an elaborate ceremony after a victorious homecoming game with Oregon. This spectacular homecoming was planned and directed by the student council and its committees.

Homecoming Game with Oregon.

Brrr! This water is like ice! Pictured here is a Horace Mann class in beginning swimming. Horace Mann is the only high school in the county to offer a program in swimming.

Ready, Aim, fire! Trudi Walker, senior, draws for a perfect Bullseye. Very few schools are able to provide archery as a part of their physical education program.

College

The Littlest Cub knows a good thing when he sees it! Where else but at Horace Mann would college facilities be available to high school students.

It makes him feel so-o-o athletic and like a Big-Cub-On-Campus to swim in the Northwest Missouri State College pool, play a doubles match on the college tennis courts, and bounce around on the College

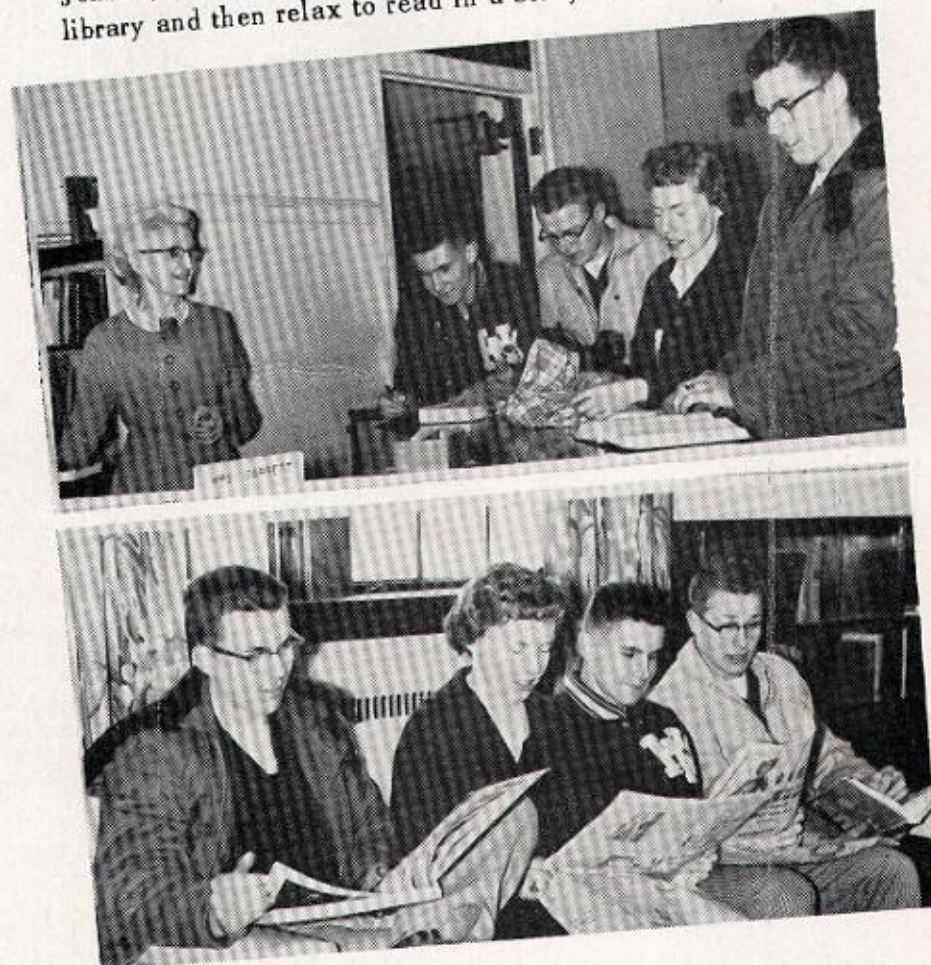

Thank goodness we didn't have to go up town to buy these! Horace Mann students are allowed to use the bookstore in the Union Building. Here Ramona Jensen and H. C. Bauman are purchasing slide rules for chemistry class.

trampoline. His brain is inclined to work overtime in the College library. He fairly reeks of culture after a college assembly, and doesn't everyone look more glamorous in the moonlight on the balcony at the Student Union after the all school dance.

For all this, The Littlest Cub gives a jaunty tip of the cap and a thank-you to his big brother, the Northwest Missouri State College Bearcat.

The College Gymnasium provides an excellent place for Horace Mann to play its basketball games.

Sweetheart Dance

At the annual Sweetheart Dance, Connie Sue Oliver and John Colwell were crowned 1958 Horace Mann Sweetheart Queen and King.

Connie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Oliver, Barnard, is a sophomore. The son of Harry Colwell, Maryville, John is a junior.

Connie and John were voted queen and king from a group of 12, two candidates from each class. Senior and junior high students were allowed to vote.

First attendants were Jancie Waugh and Bob McGinnis. Other candidates were J. K. Runyon, Donna Arms, Lona Moeller, Curtis Ware, Linda Bouska, E. C. Walker, Jane Perkins and Terry Blagg.

The student council, headed by Roger Blackwell, president, sponsored the dance.

Classes

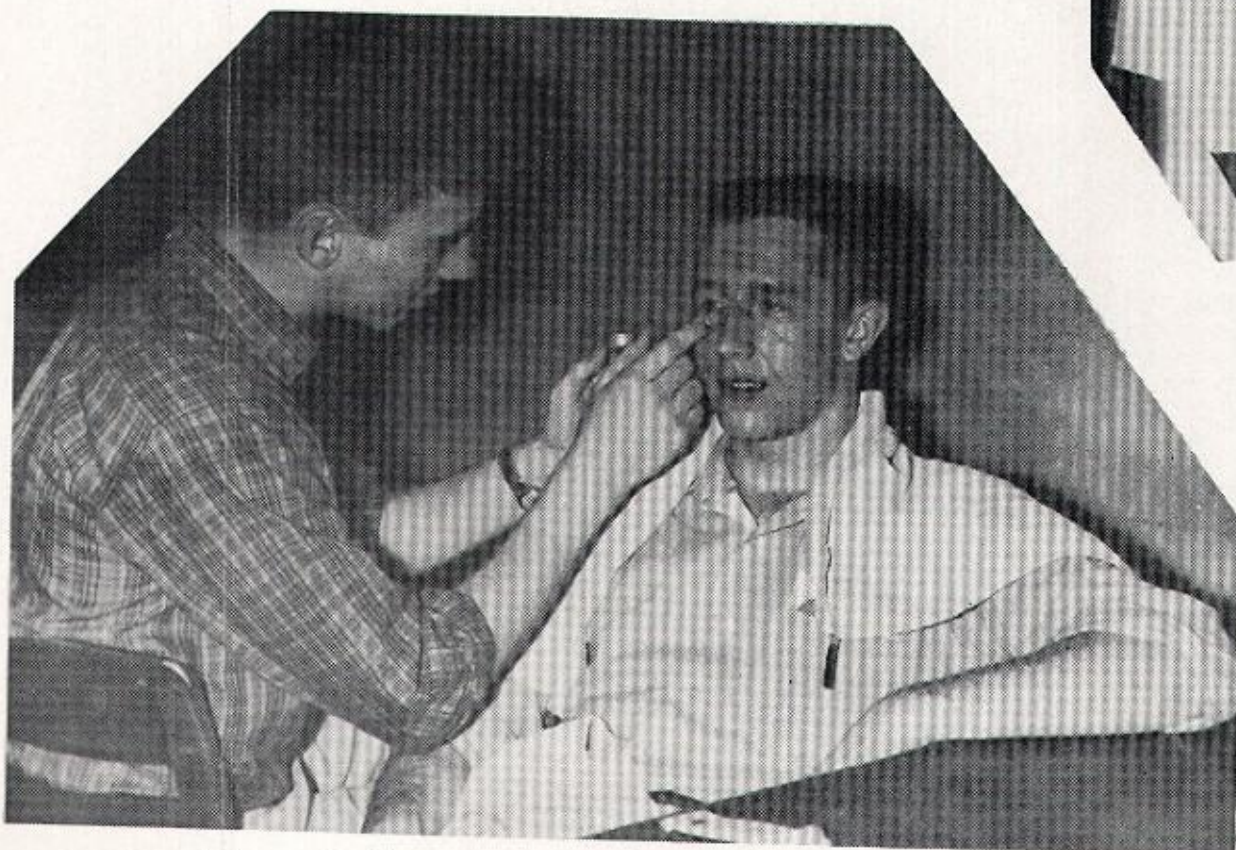

Hey, Mom! Would you believe this? John Colwell and Bob Willis try their hands at cooking in Boys' Home Problems Class.

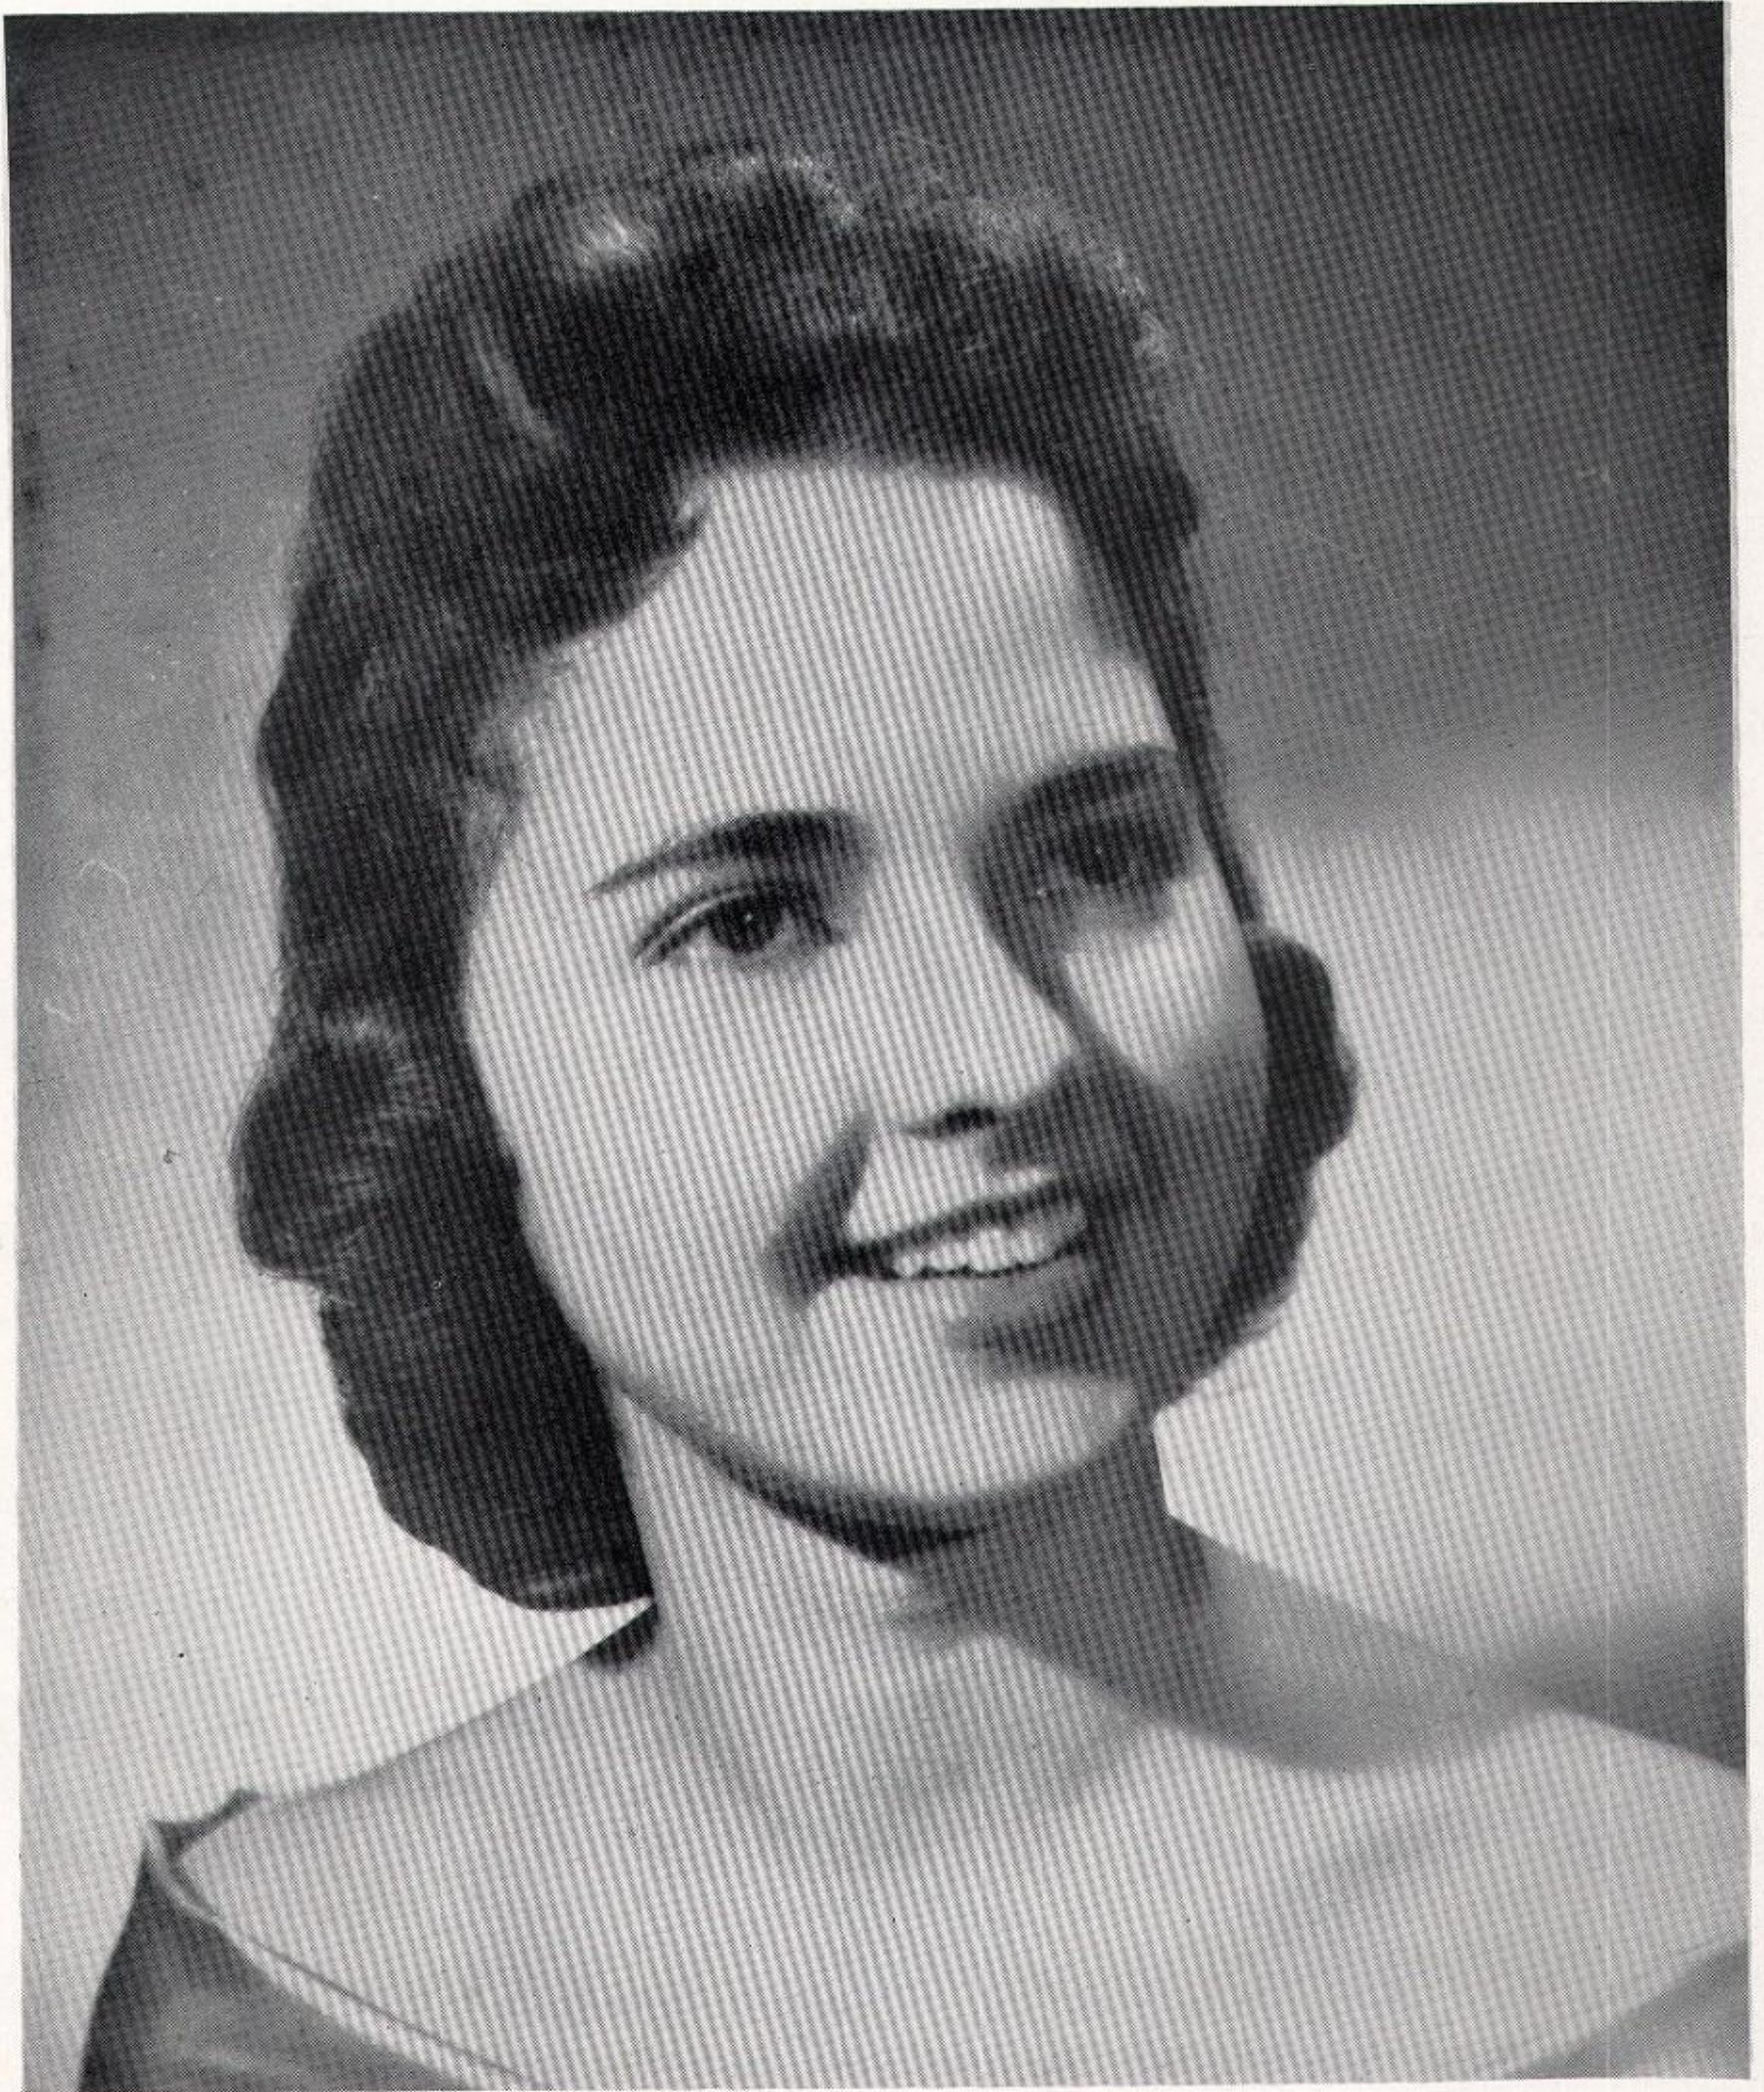

Linda Reaksecker, junior art student, displays a silk screen she has made.

Artist at work! Senior, Scott Brown, will soon be old and gray, thanks to Rick Heitman and the training he received in Senior Speech Class.

Football

The first game of the season found the Cubs boasting eight senior lettermen. Mound City found the Cubs a rough crew to cope with, and fell 24-0. The next game, which was termed by head coach, Burton Richey, "Worst game played," was the game at Pattonsburg in which the Cubs, lacking in man power due to injuries, lost 14-13. Craig, next on the schedule, took advantage of weakness left on the first team due to injuries, but were held by the Cubs who won by the narrow margin of 12-7.

An open date and flu resulted in four weeks without a game. Though long coming, the next game with Lenox, Iowa, showed the Cubs almost in full strength when they came through with a 29-9 victory. The final game of the season with Oregon was packed with incentives for the team. Not only was it the last game for the eight seniors, it was homecoming, and it was Oregon who handed the Cubs their only defeat in the 1956 season. Everyone on the team was ready for the game and for the first time the Cubs were in full strength. All these factors seemed to be sufficient for the Cubs trounced Oregon for the first time in 15 years, thus clinching the 275 Conference. Practically all the first team for the Cubs received all Conference honors.

Basketball

"We've had a pretty good season on the whole," commented Coach Burton Richey on the basketball season.

Coach Richey thought the younger players had come through in good shape, but that the ball club was hurt by lack of height. He also said that the Cubs had a rough time in the regional, but showed their good sportsmanship by winning the NIM Sportsmanship trophy. Bob Willis was high point man for the year with 263.

TAB Club, Teenage Book Club, sponsored by Mrs. Raymond Arthur, benefited the Junior High in dramatic experience, learning the lights, and increasing interests in reading.

Two important factors that made the year interesting were presenting TAB Club plays for the parents and Mr. James Johnson's class, and the writing of the TAB Club Constitution.

Officers for the first semester were: Gene Steadman, president; Linda Bouska, vice-president; Karol Knittl, secretary; and Garnette Hawk, treasurer.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Horace Mann Senior Class of 1958, being of sane and intelligent mind, leave to our successors any possessions which we will not need after graduation.

To Mr. H. R. Dieterich, we leave another class that will become a senior class as much like ours as possible.

Rebecca Bell wills all of the signs that were left in her front yard to anyone who enjoys returning "Top Value Stamp" signs and school "Stop" signs to their rightful owners.

Roger Blackwell wills his friendship with the city police to Roger Houston. Good Luck, Roger.

Charla Blagg wills her ability to stay out late on Saturday night and be able to make Sunday School and church on Sunday, which was willed to her by Elaine Thrasher, to Linda Reaksecker and Ramona Jensen.

Scott Brown wishes to will his ability to go out for basketball four years and never letter to Marlin Heflin; also he would like to will his record of the most visits to Dieterich's office to anyone who has plenty of time on his hands.

Jerry Card wills his controlled temper and ability to stay out of trouble to Jack Partridge. Jack, we surely hope you use them to good advantage.

Twila Carr wills the diary that was willed to her by Dale Trusty to Connie Liedy. Take good care of it, Connie. We hope you use it as much as Twila.

Elaine Degase wills her ability to go home only one night a week and still be on good terms with her parents to Judi Hamman and Carolyn Winell.

Etta Mae Dougan wishes to will her friendship with certain South Nodaway boys to Margaret St. Clair and Darlene Babb; also she would like to leave her nickname "Odd Ball" to Barbara Wooten.

Robert Dunn wills his position on the football team to Donald Crane. Better start growing, Don!

June Elliott wills to Alice Smith all of her best-liked high school classes. Don't acquire too many credits, Alice.

Dear Roger,
 H. M. H. S. is going to miss a wonderful guy like you in the Best of luck in the future. A Sophie
 Elaine
 (Hammock)

Alice Green wills her ability not to lose her temper to Sharon Luke. Careful, Sharon.

Dean Heflin says that if he has anything anyone wants, he may have it.

Norman Heflin wills his ability to get along with Mr. Dieterich to his brother Marlin.

Rick Heitman wills his broken arm to Marlin Heflin. He hopes Marlin will get to play those last two games.

Kenneth Hughes wills his ability to visit Mr. Dieterich's office only once a year to Spencer Dwiggins.

Tim Johnson wills his ability to be kept off the honor roll by his P. E. grades to Larry Liddle.

Agnes Luke wills her nickname "Butch" to Linda Kensinger. Agnes hopes she enjoys it as much as she did.

Karen McIntyre wills her trip to Kansas City where there were three times as many boys as girls to Judi Hamman and Margaret St. Clair. I'm sure you girls will like the odds; Karen did.

Dennis Manning wishes to leave his cowboy boots to Charlie Steadman. How does it feel to be two inches taller, Charlie?

Jolene Morrow wishes to will her ability to get a diamond during her senior year and still go on to college, to her sister Carol. She hopes Carol doesn't take advantage of it sooner.

Richard Pope wills his ability to get kicked out of school one week and be back in the next as Sweetheart King to David Kay.

J. K. Runyon wills his ability to commute 60 miles a day to attend Horace Mann to anyone else who cares to drive that far to school.

Phyllis Smith wishes to will her quietness, that was willed to her by Sharon Smail, to Robert Sutton. She hopes that "Sutty" makes better use of it than she did.

Trudi Walker wills her power-packed 90 pounds to anyone who has the over-weight problem.

Cynthia Ware wills her ability to be single when finishing school to Judi Hamman. Good luck, Judi.

Janice Waugh wills her determination to finish high school to anyone who needs it.

Hollis White wills his insurance money from getting his teeth knocked out two times in football season to Donny Peterson. Give them the very worst, Donny.

After Green will be...

PROPHECY

It was the year 1968. Much had changed since the Seniors of 1958 had left the halls of Horace Mann High School.

I had joined the Space Travelers Association and was about to take my first trip to the moon. As I stepped on the space ship, none other than Phyllis Smith was there to greet me. Phyllis told me she had been working as a stewardess aboard the rocket since she graduated from college. I then asked if she had heard from Agnes Luke or knew where she was. Phyllis took hold of my arm and ushered me along the corridor of the rocket and into a large gymnasium. Yes, there was Agnes. She had been so gifted and so interested in sports during high school that the Rocket Association hired her as a social director on the space ship. In talking with Phyllis and Agnes, I learned that J. K. Runyon was the pilot of the space ship. We moved up to talk to Jake who told us that his home was on an asteroid near the moon. Jake had added a daughter to his family.

It was then time to leave. As the rocket blasted off into the sky, I asked Agnes how long it would be before we landed on the moon. She told me that if Jake didn't get lost, it would probably be about two days.

As we began to walk around, we met Trudi Walker who was going to join her fiance on the moon, where he was a public accountant. Trudi told us that Cynthia Ware was teaching American history to children on Mars. She has not yet found the right space man for herself, but she is still looking. As the day went on, we talked about all of the things that had happened back at H. M. H. S. Trudi told us that since playing the part of Hortense (Fatty) Sellinger in the senior play, she has never completely lost the nick-name "Fatty." By the way, Trudi hasn't gained a pound. Just then a spacegram came for Trudi. It was from none other than Charla Blagg, who was planning to meet Trudi at the station when we reached the moon. We then began to plan a reunion on the moon.

Two days later Phyllis announced that we were about to land. Charla met us and we were very surprised to see her in a shiny 1968 Cadillac convertible. Charla told us that she was now a big star in outer space. She got her start in the senior Christmas play at Horace Mann. By the way she is well known for the dances she does. Just then, Rebecca Bell, Charla's publicity agent and manager, came down the street. Rebecca told us that after college Charla had made a good start in the theatre, but needed someone to manage her outer space engagements and publicity.

It was the year 1968. That had changed since the Service of 1958 had left the halls of Horace Mann High School.

I had joined the Space Travelers Association and was about to take my first trip to the moon. I had stepped on the space ship, none other than Sylvia Smith was there to greet me. Sylvia told me she had been working as a stenographer and she had been working for the Space Travelers Association. I then asked if she had heard from anyone since we were the last. Sylvia took hold of my arm and whispered to me along the corridor of the rocket and into the large transition. Yes, she said. She had been so excited and so interested in seeing Sylvia. I had told her that the Space Association had been a social director of the space ship. I had been with Sylvia and I had learned that J. J. Hunsley was the pilot of the space ship. I had been so excited to talk to her that I had told her that my home was on an asteroid near the moon. I had a daughter named Sylvia.

It was then time to leave. As the rocket blasted off into the sky, I asked Sylvia how long it would take to get to the moon. She told me that it would take about 10 days, I would probably be about two days.

As we drifted with us, we sat there. Sylvia who was going to join her friends on the moon, and I was a public stenographer. I told her that Sylvia was a stenographer and she was going to work on the moon. She had not yet found the right space man for herself, but she was still looking. As the day went on, we talked about all of the things that had happened since we had left. I told her that I had been a part of the Space Association and I had been a social director of the space ship. I had been with Sylvia and I had learned that J. J. Hunsley was the pilot of the space ship. I had been so excited to talk to her that I had told her that my home was on an asteroid near the moon. I had a daughter named Sylvia. We then began to plan a reunion on the moon.

Two days later Sylvia reported that we were about to land. Sylvia told us that we were very surprised to see her in a shiny 1958 Cadillac convertible. Sylvia told us that she was now a big girl in outer space. She had been in the Space Association and she had been a stenographer. She was the well known for the Space Association. She had been a part of the Space Association and she had been a social director of the space ship. I had been with Sylvia and I had learned that J. J. Hunsley was the pilot of the space ship. I had been so excited to talk to her that I had told her that my home was on an asteroid near the moon. I had a daughter named Sylvia. We then began to plan a reunion on the moon.

We then took a ride in Charla's new car, and Rebecca turned on the TV to catch the late news. Before the picture came into focus, a familiar voice announced the number one song in outer space, "Don't Rock The Sputnik." We knew it could be no one but "Jolly Roger Blackwell." Rebecca told us that Roger was the owner and operator of the space radio and television station. Roger then announced on the TV that Professor Spitfire, Tim Johnson, was still hard at work on his latest scientific project, a shopping center which will be placed just a few light-years from Venus. Food supplies have been low recently, but there is no real cause for alarm because Professor Johnson is well qualified for the job.

On our way to Moon City, we met Mrs. Francis Tompkins, the former Miss Jolene Morrow. Jo is now part owner of a beauty shop in Moon City. She said she kept pretty busy because her two-year old daughter is always into some sort of mischief.

By the time Jolene's lunch hour was over, we had heard about many more Seniors of '58. Jolene said that Mrs. Richard Heitman, Barbara Wooten, who is one of her steady customers, tells her about her husband's latest adventures every time she comes. Rick, a great game hunter in outer space, has recently captured two blue blobs and one red blob. Rick is the first ever to capture a red blob; for if you don't sneak up on the blobs, they will turn blue before you catch them. Barbara quotes Rick, "I got my practice swiping cake from the lunch room back in high school."

After leaving Jolene, we happened to meet Scott Brown on the west side of Moon City. He informed us that he is now working in the Forest Rangers's Organization on Pluto where he has even developed his own forest. Since Scott moved to Pluto, it has actually become warmer there, believe it or not.

After leaving Scott, we visited Richard Pope's large cattle ranch. It was a tremendous sight to see, because of the vast acres of land with a new type of cattle grazing there. Richard made a shy statement about planning to marry soon, but wouldn't tell us who the future Mrs. was to be. He did tell us, however, that Jerry Card was a cattle buyer for a top firm of Mars. He bought most of Richard's cattle which were especially bred for life in outer space.

On our way back to Moon City, we passed a new hospital, where we later learned that Alice Green was head nurse. We drove on to a hotel to spend the night. To my surprise we found ourselves at the White Hotel. Of course, the owner was Hollis White, the All American Flower Pot Thrower from H. M. H. S. We had some good laughs about several incidents that happened in 1958.

The next morning when we went shopping in some of the outer space stores, we met Karen McIntyre, a fashion designer. Karen told us that we had just missed Janice Waugh who had purchased one of the McIntyre originals. Janice and Larry were going to celebrate their thirteenth wedding anniversary that night.

We then took a ride in Charlie's new car, and Rebecca turned on the TV to catch the late news. Before we could get into the car, the car radio announced the number one song in our area, "Don't Back the Boat," which we knew it would be no one but "Jelly" Blackwell. Rebecca told us that Roger was the owner and operator of the space radio and television station. Roger then announced on the TV that Professor Hoffman, Tim Johnson, was still going to work on his latest scientific project, a shopping center which will be located just a few miles from town. Good news, but there is no real cause for alarm because Professor Johnson is well qualified for the job.

On our way to Moon City, we met Mrs. Francis Thompson, the former Miss Helen Brown. She is now part owner of a beauty shop in Moon City. She said she had really had a good time at the party and that she had had some good fun.

By the time Helen's lunch was over, we had had about twenty more drinks of '51. Helen said that Richard Helman, Barbara Johnson, who is one of her steady customers, will be spending a lot of money every time she comes. Helen said that she had a lot of fun at the party and that she had had some good fun. Helen said that she had a lot of fun at the party and that she had had some good fun. Helen said that she had a lot of fun at the party and that she had had some good fun.

After leaving Helen, we happened to meet a local from the west side of Moon City. He informed us that he is now working in the local hospital. He said that he had a lot of fun at the party and that he had had some good fun. He said that he had a lot of fun at the party and that he had had some good fun.

After leaving Helen, we visited a small local cafe. It was a pleasant surprise to find a small cafe of this kind in a town of this size. Richard said that he had a lot of fun at the party and that he had had some good fun. Richard said that he had a lot of fun at the party and that he had had some good fun.

On our way back to Moon City, we passed a new hospital. It was a pleasant surprise to find a new hospital in a town of this size. Richard said that he had a lot of fun at the party and that he had had some good fun. Richard said that he had a lot of fun at the party and that he had had some good fun.

The next morning when we went shopping in one of the local stores, we met a local woman who had been married to a local man. She said that she had a lot of fun at the party and that she had had some good fun. She said that she had a lot of fun at the party and that she had had some good fun.

Since we were going to spend a week in Moon City, we decided to throw a reunion to discuss old times. We went back to the hotel and began to write invitations. Later that evening we attended one of the many fascinating programs Hollis has for the entertainment of his guests. A card player by the name of Robert Weiderholt was the first on the program, demonstrating his amazing card tricks. He claimed that the practice he got in Miss Weigand's speech class gave him his start. Robert Dunn was his excellent assistant.

Robert told us after the performance that Dean Heflin was now in Alaska back on the old planet Earth. Robert said that he had just had a letter from him with discouraging news. It seems that Dean took "Cracked Ice," the one-act play presented in '58, to heart. He is still waiting for that beautiful, practical woman to come to take care of him.

Since it was getting late, we all went back to our rooms and decided that maybe some of the group could come for the reunion even though Dean wouldn't be able to come from Alaska.

The next day we went to the post office and mailed our invitations. On our way we met Mrs. Maurice Mires, the former Twila Carr, and learned that she and her family were living on a farm on Mars. She said that there were so many friendly people there, that she wouldn't trade places with Elaine Dease, at all. I hear that Elaine and Bud didn't like Navy life on Earth and moved to Moon City about a year ago.

We left Twila and entered the post office. Kenneth Hughes, the post master general, told us that we should look at the bulletin board for further information about our class. We did, and this is what we read, "Dennis Manning, newly elected space sheriff is offering a $10,000 reward for a space jumper." Good old Denny was always so kind-hearted with his money. I wonder if Dennis got his space jumper?

It was noon when we found ourselves alone again. We went to a ritzy restaurant for lunch. It wasn't long before June Elliott appeared in the doorway. In case you didn't know, June carried on her responsibility of being a newspaper woman, which she started in the Senior Play. She said she had just finished a story about Norman Heflin. I guess Norman makes the headlines everyday. Norman is, of course, still hiring models for his modeling agency. June says his advertisements are as "gone" as the gowns he creates for his models.

I was very tired by this time and told Agnes that I really didn't think we needed a party. There was no reply from Agnes until we reached the hotel. We discovered then that Bob Willis was the only person in our class that we had not heard about. We went downstairs to ask Hollis about Bob. Hollis informed us that "Big Bob" had designed and built his hotel and was now working on a large building which would cover one square mile of land. It is to be used for government meetings held among the countries of all the planets. Bob says he really has an important job this time.

As the week progressed, the Seniors of 1958 began to gather at the White Hotel in Moon City. After many hours of talk and old memories the party came to an end. I then told the girls that I would have to return to Jupiter and do my bookkeeping job, but that I had really enjoyed my week's vacation with everyone in Moon City.
